The Current is pleased to announce a new creative fundraising effort to support our peer non-profit organization, Stowe Land Trust, in an effort to conserve one of Stowe's most iconic farms.

The whimsical looking cows are available for donations of at least $25 to support the Ricketson Farm conservation project. In addition, The Current is organizing a February vacation week family workshop on the 22nd & 23rd from 10am - 2pm for community members to come in and help create more Cows for the Cause. A nominal suggested donation of $25 will go directly to the Stowe Land Trust to support their efforts.

Thanks to the generosity of many in the local community, Stowe Land Trust and their partner, Vermont Land Trust, have made terrific progress toward raising the $2.5 million needed to conserve the farm.

These "cash cows" will help make a difference. This rare opportunity to protect Stowe's farming heritage and future will also protect regional ecological health and our community's well being.
